DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-9 and 11-15, drawn to an isolated nucleic acid molecule encoding a disease resistance polypeptide, plant, and a plant transformation method, classified in class 800, subclass 279, for example.
- II. Claim 10, drawn to an isolated polypeptide, classified in class 530, subclass 370, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the polypeptide of Group II can be made by another and materially different process, such as chemical synthesis. For instance, the polypeptide can be isolated using affinity chromatography. In addition, the nucleic acid of Group I is patentably distinct from the polypeptide of Group II because polypeptides are composed of amino acids while the nucleic acids are composed of purines /pyrimidine units, which are structurally different molecules; any relationship between a nucleic acid and a polypeptide is dependent upon the information provided by the nucleic acid sequence open reading frame as it corresponds to the primary amino acid sequence of the encoded polypeptide. In the present claims, a nucleic acid of Group I does not necessarily encode a polypeptide of Group II. For example, a nucleic acid that hybridizes to SEQ ID NO: 1 under unspecified hybridization conditions (claim 1, part c) does not encode SEQ ID NO: 2. Therefore, the inventions of Groups I and II are patentably distinct.

Furthermore, searching the inventions of Groups I and II together would impose a serious search burden. In the instant case, the search of the nucleic acids and the polypeptides is not coextensive. In addition, the scope of the polypeptides encompasses polypeptides having 93% identity to the sequence identified. This search requires an extensive analysis of the art retrieved in a sequence search and will require an in-depth analysis of technical literature. The scope of the nucleic acid claims extend beyond the nucleic acid that encodes the claimed polypeptide as discussed above. Therefore, it would be burdensome to search the inventions of Groups I and II together.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons set forth above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications and their recognized divergent subject matter and because the literature search required for the groups is not coextensive, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
